DETAILED ACTION

Response to Arguments

1. Applicant's arguments filed 10/16/2006 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Zhang et al.'s configuration is inherently capable of providing a restrain region of hot carriers as disclosed in column 10, lines 23-29.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

- 1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:
 - (a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.
- 2. Claims 1-4 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Zhang (6,855,954) in view of Cho et al. (6,391,693).

Regarding Claims 1-4, Zhang discloses a thin film transistor and liquid crystal display having the thin film transistor where in Fig. 1C it is disclosed a gate 4 disposed on the substrate, a gate dielectric layer 6 disposed on the gate, a pattern semiconductor layer 8, a patterned, silicon dioxide or silicon oxide, insulating layers 10 and 11 and an ohmic layer (p or n type) 12 disposed on the silicon layer. Passivation layer 14 covers insulating layers 10 and 11. Zhang fails to disclose the required configuration where the central portion of the channel semiconductor layer is polysilicon and the side portions are amorphous. However, Cho et al. disclose a method for making polysilicon thin film transistor having multiple gate electrodes where in Fig. 2E, polysilicon channel region 18 (the middle portions) and adjacent amorphous portions 18a-18c are disclosed.

It would have been obvious to one of having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to include the required polysilicon center portion and the amorphous side portions for the channel region in Zhang as taught by Cho et al. in order to have a thin film transistor structure with increased reliability.

Regarding Claim 2, passivation layer is labeled as 14 in Zhang Fig. 1C

Regarding Claim 3, ohmic contact layer 12 of Zhang Fig. 1C is either n or p type

Regarding Claim 4, insulating layer 6, 10 and 11 are disclosed to be either silicon oxide or silicon nitride in Zhang as disclosed in column 1

Conclusion

3. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event,

Application/Control Number: 10/710,844

Art Unit: 2826

however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
